COUNTRY THREAT LEVEL & SECURITY INFORMATION

Overall, the threat facing visitors to Ireland is Low. Crime &ndash; particularly non-confrontational incidents of petty theft &ndash; is the primary security concern for travelers to the country. Muggings and street robberies committed against foreign travelers occur relatively infrequently. Demonstrations related to political, social and economic developments occur occasionally; however, most are small in scale and nonviolent. Strikes occur periodically and may cause disruptions to public and private services used by travelers. The possibility of terrorist attacks perpetrated by Islamist militants is a general concern in Ireland, but the overall threat is relatively low and the country is a less likely target than many other Western countries. The threat of violence related to political developments in Northern Ireland is low but cannot be completely ruled out
